Open Education System Now Offers Business Administration Program in English

In 2017-2018 academic year, the Open Education System of Anadolu University starts offering programs in foreign languages in addition to programs in Turkish. The Program in Business Administration, in which the medium of instruction is English, admits its first students in the upcoming academic year. Approval was received from the Higher Education Council, and all preparations have been completed to start this program.

The Program offers courses such as Fundamentals of Law, Introduction to Economics, Introduction to Business Administration, Information and Communication Technologies, Sociology, Mathematics, Business Management, World History and Psychology, which draw interest of students in Turkey and abroad. Students that complete the study successfully have the chance to pursue graduate studies abroad with their internationally acknowledged degree. A degree from a program taught in English certainly provides them with an advantage for successful career planning.

Opening Doors To The World With An In Internationally-Recognized Degree Admission Requirements

Candidates can apply for the programs on the dates specified in 2017-2018 academic calendar. To prove English proficiency, candidates are required to submit score reports of tests recognized by the Higher Education Council of Turkey. The programs do not include an English-language preparatory program. Students that do not submit proof of English proficiency during enrollment have two years to get sufficient score in foreign-language tests.

Visit of Students from Fulda, Frankfurt to Anadolu University

Turkish students born and living in Fulda, Frankfurt visited the Western Europe Bureau of Anadolu University. The group of students that came to Cologne with their Turkish teacher Nilgün Alipek and parents received information about Anadolu University from the bureau personnel.

Dr. Ahmet Atilla Doğan, Coordinator for Programs in Western Europe, welcomed the visitors together with bureau personnel, and informed them about Anadolu University, Open Education System, and Turkish Ministry of National Education's distance learning options for secondary and upper secondary education. Derya Mutlu answered students' questions about secondary education, and Serab Kurt about higher education programs.

After watching the promotional video about Anadolu University, students shared their future career plans with Dr. Ahmet Atilla Doğan. Dr. Doğan expressed his pleasure that young Turkish people living in Germany are trilingual and have achieved the goal of improving Turkish-language skills. "These young people are literally brilliant. They will have effective communication with the Turkish community in Europe and the business world in Turkey. I appreciate very much the efforts they made to improve Turkish skills. I also would like to thank to their teacher Nilgün Alipek and parents," Dr. Doğan said. "It is possible to attend, at the same time, a gymnasium in Germany and get enrolled in secondary education programs offered in distance mode," he added, motivating students to have a secondary education (Açık Öğretim Lisesi) degree from Turkey.

The majority of students stated that they plan to have higher education in Germany. Yet, they also want to get enrolled in one of the Western Europe Programs of Anadolu University. After having photos taken with bureau personnel, students left the Open Education Bureau to make further visits in Cologne.
